Dear Fellow Researchers and Colleagues,

Greetings!

The Eastern Samar State University is set to host anew the 8th International Conference on Integrative Disaster Risk Reduction Management on 10 – 11 November 2021 via Zoom and Facebook Live with the theme, "Heal the World, Make it a Better, Safer Place".

The conference envisions in bringing together government officials, academicians, non-government personnel, environmentalists and other stakeholders on dealing with pernicious effects of climate change. More specifically, it is aimed to attain the following objectives; 1) Collaborate, communicate, coordinate and capitalize on effective climate change adaptation and mitigation strategies such as land use planning, utilization of alternative and renewable energy, among others, in order to limit global warming to safer levels; 2) Embark on studies to improve the resilience of all ecosystems to avert adverse effects on food production, health and economic security and 3) serve as venue in pursuing an enabling environment of change geared toward mitigating the worsening effects of climate change.

In view thereof, we would like to invite you, your faculty researchers including extension personnel together with your focal person of disaster risk reduction and management, and other interested officials in your agency to attend the said event.

Registration fee is One Thousand Pesos (USD 20.00) inclusive of e-certificate. Please refer to the attached conference details. Should you have further queries about the Conference, please address them to essu.icidrrm@gmail.com or call/text the following numbers; 09955781508 (Globe/TM) and 09685503118 (Smart/TNT/Sun).
