BACKGROUND

The Asia Pacific Centre of Education for International Understanding (APCEIU) was established in 2000 as a UNESCO Category 2 center to promote education for a Culture of Peace. APCEIU is working in close collaboration with UNESCO Offices, National Commissions of Member States, related educational institutes, and civil society to promote Global Citizenship Education (GCED) under the framework of Education for International Understanding (EIU) towards a Culture of Peace. APCEIU has devoted itself to strengthening GCED/EIU capacities of stakeholders globally by pursuing its philosophy and policies through training teachers and teacher trainers; research and policy development; developing educational materials and programs; organizing different levels of workshops and conferences; and strengthening the network of teachers, educators, experts, civil society leaders, and other stakeholders. Through close cooperation with various international organizations, APCEIU has organized many events to promote GCED and will implement diverse projects on GCED towards a Culture of Peace.

APCEIU is committed to enhancing the capacities of educators on fostering global citizenship through education. Teachers can transform their classrooms into a democratic, participatory, inquiry-based, empathetic, and engaging place for learners. This experience will ultimately help learners recognize themselves as active members of the classroom.

The 7th Global Capacity-Building Workshop on GCED will invite educators in developing countries to learn and explore global citizenship education. Interactive

7th Global Capacity-Building Workshop on GCED

Global citizenship: Starting from a classroom, reaching out to a community

APCEIU is committed to enhancing the capacities of educators on fostering global citizenship through education, and as part of its efforts of supporting educators, training programmes in various forms have been offered to key educators around the world. With the accumulated experiences and expertise in the area of teacher training on global citizenship, APCEIU has contributed to helping educators to become active agents of change coping with the challenges they face in the rapidly changing learning environment.

Change can start with the educators in the classroom. As global citizens themselves, teachers can transform the classroom a place for dialogue and participation. In other words, instead of teaching about global citizenship, teachers can practice it by transforming their classrooms into a democratic, participatory, inquiry-based, empathetic, and engaging place for learners. Invited to the open and learner-centered classrooms, learners can actively participate in the learning process and contribute to co-creating the knowledge with the educators and peer learners. This experience will ultimately help learners to recognize themselves as active members of the classroom, which can be extended to a larger community beyond the school walls.

It is in line with the social and emotional learning that GCED highlights along with cognitive and behavioral learning. Creation of a safe, open, and participatory classroom requires educators' open mindsets and perspectives as well as the relevant pedagogical approaches and methods. Global citizenship learned in the classroom can be practiced and unfolded in the real lives of the learners, from their local communities to a global society.

The 7th Global Capacity-Building Workshop on GCED will invite educators in developing countries to learn and explore global citizenship education with a focus of social and emotional learning (SEL). Interactive lectures, live webinars for discussion, and dialogue and interaction with peer educators will enable the participants gain knowledge, skills, and networks with which they can make changes in their education sites. Furthermore, an exclusive mentorship opportunity by international experts will be offered for the selected participants who will implement their own GCED initiatives.
